INFORMATIONAL ITEM.

- Rankings. After previous conversations with Dr. Mark Broadie to discuss the current national collegiate golf rankings during its annual meeting in June and again on August 7, the committees reconvened on August 26 with Dr. Mark Broadie to review the impact of potential adjustments to the ranking methodology and make changes prior to the start of the 2024-25 season.

The committees ultimately approved recommendations from Dr. Broadie to tighten guardrails limiting the impact of outlier results and adjust the ranking methodology to ensure a more gradual and consistent distribution of points awarded during events throughout the season. Additionally, the ranking methodology will be adjusted to lessen the weight associated with match play and competitions involving only two teams. These adjustments were also supported by the Golf Coaches Association of America and Women's Golf Coaches Association working groups formed earlier this summer to provide feedback on possible ranking changes.
