

REPORT OF THE
NCAA MEN'S VOLLEYBALL COMMITTEE
APRIL 3, 2020, TELECONFERENCE

ACTION ITEMS.

- None.

INFORMATIONAL ITEM.

- Finals site change of venue. The 2021 NCAA National Collegiate men's volleyball finals site originally scheduled to be conducted at St. John Arena will be moved to the Covelli Center with The Ohio State University remaining as the host institution. St. John Arena and the Covelli Center are both located on the campus of Ohio State. The Covelli Center is the new on-campus arena designed for volleyball events. Ohio State had informed NCAA staff the venue would begin to host contests during the 2019-20 season and requested that the committee consider switching venues. The Covelli Center meets the minimum seating requirements outlined in the applicable bid specification documents from the previous bid cycle when St. John Arena had been selected. Furthermore, the new arena will provide a better experience for the student-athletes; the Covelli Center offers state of the art locker rooms, video boards, public address/sound system, press conference room, etc. Following the NCAA site visit in the fall of 2019 and subsequent report, the committee agreed switching venues would be the best experience.
