

The Division I Board of Directors appoints members to the Division I Committee on Infractions, the group that is charged with finding facts and concluding whether member schools and individuals violated NCAA rules and what, if any, penalties authorized by the membership are appropriate.

DIVISION I COMMITTEE ON INFRACTIONS

There are up to 24 members

Their professional profiles are:

- Current or former university presidents and chancellors
- Current and former athletics directors
- Conference commissioners and other representatives
- Former NCAA coaches
- Campus and conference compliance officials
- Faculty athletics representatives
- Other university staff or faculty
- Members of the public with formal legal training

Did You Know?

Professional backgrounds of current and former COI members include:

- Former United States attorney general
- Southeastern Conference commissioner
- Former head of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission
- Member of the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame
- Former general counsel to the FBI
- General counsel to United States Anti-Doping Agency

Committee members are recused when there is a conflict of interest.

Members of the COI cannot participate in a case if they have a connection with a university under investigation or if they have a personal, professional or institutional affiliation that may create the appearance of a conflict of interest.

DIVISION I COMMITTEE ON INFRACTIONS PANELS

Cases are considered by panels of five to seven members. A three-member panel may be assigned based on the number and/or nature of allegations.
