Each NCAA Division II conference office, in consultation with conference faculty athletics representatives (FARs) and presidents/chancellors, is requested to nominate one FAR Fellow to be considered as a nominee for the NCAA Division II FAR Advanced Leadership Institute.

To qualify, nominees must:

In addition, it is hoped that the Advanced Leadership Institute will develop a group of FAR leaders in Division II who will:

- Become the conference and national-level voice for Division II FARs;
- Promote the Division II identity and strategic positioning platform;
- Discuss their active role regarding issues related to intercollegiate athletics, especially student-athlete well-being, academic integrity, institutional compliance and diversity and inclusion;
- Provide opportunities to talk deeply about issues that are of immediate concern to FARs and become involved in research projects regarding these issues;
- Develop resources for FARs to work more effectively with the athletics program and campus and conference leadership;

- Develop official position statements and best practices to share during FARA, NCAA and conference meetings;
- Develop ways to enhance interactions between FARs and student-athletes;
- Serve as mentors to FARs participating in the FAR Fellows Institute; and
- Educate and encourage FARs on the possibilities and specifics of involvement on NCAA and/or FARA committees.

Additionally, it is expected that FAR Fellows selected will stay in their position for some period of time after the institute, in order to effectively carry out the desired outcomes outlined above.
