

Utilizing and supporting conference office ADIDs

- Allow the ADID to provide quarterly updates related to diversity, equity and inclusion, including information from campus ADIDs, to conference athletics directors and senior woman administrators.
- Have the ADID provide a diversity, equity and inclusion report at the conference's annual meeting.
- Create a network for ADIDs to encourage dialogue within the same conference.
- Consult the ADID in diversity, equity and inclusion-related issues with student-athletes, coaches, administrators and conference office staff.
- Utilize the ADID to review conference office policies and procedures from a diversity, equity and inclusion perspective.
- Invite the ADID to report information related to diversity, equity and inclusion at conference office staff meetings.
- Partner with the ADID on the conference office's participation in the annual NCAA Diversity and Inclusion Social Media Campaign.
- Communicate who the ADID is and the importance of the designation within the conference office and to campus ADIDs within the conference.
- Partner with the ADID to host conference-level diversity, equity and inclusion programs.
- Invite the ADID to engage with the conference Student-Athlete Advisory Committee and other student-athlete groups within the conference to hear and discuss student-athlete needs related to diversity, equity and inclusion.
- Support the ADID in engaging in diversity, equity and inclusion programming and professional development opportunities (i.e., the NCAA Inclusion Forum).
- Encourage the ADID to collaborate and partner with senior woman administrators and faculty athletics representatives within the conference on diversity, equity and inclusion initiatives.

For more information, visit our website:
<https://www.ncaa.org/athletics-diversity-and-inclusion-designees>

